

RENEWAL VOWS

(To be spoken by Groom and Bride)

The word renaissance means rebirth; today we celebrate the rebirth of our commitment before this honored gathering.
(Groom/Bride), with full confidence in the solid anchor of our love, I take you once again as my husband/wife.

Once before I have stood with you before family and friend; once again I take your hand as my partner. (Groom/Bride), I take you this day and for all days as my husband/wife.

I believe in this marriage more strongly than ever.
(Groom/Bride), it is with joy born of experience and trust that I commit myself once again to be your husband/wife.

Perhaps the only thing truer than one's first love is to recommit to that love before family and friends. (Groom/Bride), you were and are my love for life; I take you from this day forward as my husband/wife.

I, Groom's name, give to you, Bride's name, a new promise; and a new affirmation of love from the heart that has loved you for (number of years) and will love you for as many more as God allots to it.

I, Bride's name, give to you, Groom's name, a new promise; and a new affirmation of love from the heart that has loved you for (number of years) and will love you for as many more as God allots to it.

I call upon those here present, to witness, that I renew the gift of myself to you, which I first made: when Christ our Lord bound us together on our Wedding day, I renew my loving promise to you. I promise to be true to you, in good times and in bad, in sickness and in health. I will love you and honor you, all the days of my life. I am sorry for any want of love, any selfishness; any time I have sinned against our marriage. I promise, for the time to come, to give myself in love, to both you and our children, trusting in Christ Our Lord, who lives in our home. AMEN
